Is there anything i can do in windows 10 for this? A: Solved my problem. For future reference here's what I did. I updated my system to 20H1. The system was already installed on the computer but not connected to internet. Solved my problem by using my own rar file to download the game (or content). see: download from Microsoft update center. download the iso file (I have no idea how the iso file) and download the emulator from Run the emulator. now use console and enter: 'SETCONFIG 0' now you should get: 'Gamepad configuration cannot be changed while the emulator is running.' now you can open you own rar file and change the setting. If you don't get any error when you close and reopen the game and you can open the gamepad settings then your controller is now in the final configuration mode. the emulator made some strange noises when I opened the game. this was not a problem and everything went fine. Here's the link that I used to update the system: with our clients, with the best approach to building their business.
